1 Geo-technology, China, United States: Trump 2.0 to widen and soften anti-Huawei telecom strategy

By Carisa Nietzsche, Nick Reiners, Xiaomeng Lu, et al.

The US is unlikely to push countries to ban Huawei 5G and 6G equipment; instead, the US will take a softer approach but will cover additional countries and telecoms technologies. □

2 Iran, MENA Crisis: Traffic through Hormuz will fall as shaky peace collapses

By EG Middle East & North Africa, Gregory Brew, Clayton Allen, et al.

Days of persistent skirmishing and the return of the US blockade of Iran means the shaky peace established in late June is over, with traffic through Hormuz likely to remain depressed at 5-15% of prewar flows. □

3 Iran, MENA Crisis: Escalation likely as Iran sees path to Hormuz control

By EG Middle East & North Africa, Gregory Brew, Clayton Allen, et al.

With the shaky peace over, both sides have resumed constant fighting over the Strait of Hormuz, with escalation likely in the weeks ahead. □

4 ASEAN: Philippines and Indonesia face highest El Niño risks in region

By EG Southeast Asia, Fadli Yusoff, Peter Mumford, et al.

Hotter weather conditions will increase fiscal risks as well as disrupt key global agricultural supplies. □

5 Latin America: El Niño's political costs will likely hit Andean governments hardest

By EG Latin America, Risa Grais-Targow, Francisco Olivero, et al.

Latin America faces uneven El Niño exposure, with the political repercussions likely to be most acute in Ecuador and Venezuela, while shortening honeymoon periods for new administrations in Colombia and Peru. □

6 MENA Crisis, Oil, Saudi Arabia, Yemen: Airport strike raises risk of Houthi actions targeting Saudi energy

By EG Middle East & North Africa, Firas Maksad

Houthi threaten Saudi retaliation after airport strike, likely targeting energy or Red Sea shipping for leverage—but attacks will stay limited to extract concessions, not spark full war. □

7 China: China's GDP slump deepens divide between exports and domestic demand

By EG China, Dan Wang, Xuanqiao Sun, et al.

China's GDP slump deepens divide between exports and domestic demand □

8 Brazil: Lula likely to negotiate way out of trucker strike for now

By EG Brazil Research, Arthur Scotti, Djanina Savoldi, et al.

Localized trucker stoppages across Brazil have raised concerns about a broader strike as the senate faces a tight deadline to vote on the Freight Provisional Measure (MP 1343/2026), which expires on 16 July. □

9 Mexico: Trade and investment diversification efforts are meant to complement US ties

By EG Mexico, Matias Gomez Leautaud, Antonio Ortiz-Mena, et al.

The Sheinbaum administration is deepening trade and investment ties with Europe and other partners to complement, rather than replace, the US relationship, while prioritizing new sources of investment. □

10 Canada: Washington will constrain Ottawa's reset with Beijing

By EG Canada, EG China, EG United States, et al.

Deeper commercial ties between Canada and China will be calibrated against US red lines. □
