Regarding Unauthorized Access to Our Organization's Website and Temporary Resumption

We have confirmed that unauthorized access to parts of our organization's website occurred beginning October 14 (Wednesday). In response, we suspended temporary use of the website starting October 17 (Saturday) to investigate the cause and prevent further damage.

As a result of this unauthorized access, we have confirmed the leakage of personal information for 743 cases, including company names and email addresses of company representatives. We have notified the affected companies based on the Personal Information Protection Law regarding an overview of the case and the items of leaked data.

Subsequently, on October 20 (Tuesday), we resumed provisional website publication with some functions restricted while ensuring security. Currently, access to some search functions and content requiring authentication is restricted, and as we are operating provisionally to ensure security, some pages may display content or function differently than before. Additionally, updates and reflection of posted information may take longer than usual. We apologize for the inconvenience this causes our users. We are proceeding with our response prioritizing security, and we appreciate your understanding.
