Apology and Notice of Service Resumption

JETRO's website experienced an unauthorized access incident, resulting in the leakage of customer personal information. As reported in media outlets, we temporarily closed the website to prevent further damage and ensure safety.

Following an investigation into the cause and a security review of the website, we resumed limited operations of a provisional website from October 20. As of today (October 21), the "Business Brief" is now able to publish new content, and we are resuming email newsletter distribution.

We sincerely apologize for the concern, inconvenience, and trouble this has caused. We will continue to strive to provide useful overseas business information.
