【要点】

・EUのStéphane Séjourné産業政策担当委員は、英国がEU産業促進法の「Made in Europe」基準における相互主義の条件を満たしていると述べた。

・EU産業促進法の中核問題は、第三国がEUと同等の公共市場へのアクセスを提供しているかどうかであり、カナダの「Buy Canadian」政策は保護主義的措置として批判された。

・EUは現在約40の公共調達協定を第三国と結んでおり、そのうち約20が相互的で非対称でないものであり、これらの国には問題がないとされた。

・産業促進法は再生可能エネルギー、鉄鋼、自動車などの部門でヨーロッパ製造業者への公共調達と補助金をシフトさせるが、どの国が優遇的扱いを受けるべきかについて対立を引き起こしている。

・ドイツと輸出志向のEU加盟国は広い「Made in Europe」の適用範囲を支持する一方、フランスは限定的なクラブを望んでおり、中道右派のEU議員は提案をブロックしようとしている。

UK meets ‘Made in Europe’ criteria, says EU industry chief

PARIS — Britain meets the “reciprocity” criteria for “Made in Europe” laid out in the EU’s proposed Industrial Accelerator Act , industry chief Stéphane Séjourné told POLITICO’s Competitiveness summit in Paris on Tuesday.

“With the U.K., today there is reciprocity, so they fit into reciprocity criteria,” said the commissioner as he explained that the core issue with the “Made in Europe” provisions is whether third countries offer the same level of access to public markets as the EU.

Séjourné warned that the same cannot be said of Canada, describing “Buy Canadian” as a “protectionist measure.”

“We will open our public procurement markets at the condition that European companies are treated the same as Canadian ones,” he said, adding that the topic will be discussed on his next trip to Canada in two weeks’ time at the EU-Canada Summit .

“Today we have around 40 public procurement agreements between the EU and third countries,” Séjourné said. Of these, he added, there are around 20 that are reciprocal and not asymmetric. “On these twenty, which are often OECD countries, there is no problem,” he said.

The IAA would steer public procurement and subsidies toward European manufacturers in sectors including renewable energy, steel and automobiles. But it has sparked clashes over which countries should qualify for preferential treatment.

A faction of center-right EU lawmakers moved to block the proposal last week at the European Parliament, as negotiators are still forming their positions on the divisive bill: Germany and export oriented EU countries favor a broad “Made in Europe” scope in opposition to France’s vision of a narrow club.
