

Taiwan elections and risk outlook

送信者: EG Events 受信日時: 2026-09-14 11:38

【メール原文】

Please join the Eurasia Group team to discuss the upcoming Taiwan elections and risk outlook. Clients on the call will have the opportunity to ask questions.

Upcoming Conference Call

Taiwan elections and risk outlook

Please join the Eurasia Group team to discuss the upcoming Taiwan elections and risk outlook. Clients on the call will have the opportunity to ask questions during the conversation through a moderated Q&A.

Wednesday, 16 September at 9:00 am SGT / 10:00 am JST / 11:00 am AEST

Submit questions in advance here .

Topics:

- * How are the November 2026 local elections shaping up and what will they tell us about the 2028 presidential elections?
- * What opportunities does Beijing see on Taiwan under the Trump administration?
- * What is the risk of an invasion and quarantine in the near-term and over the next five years?
- * What is a quarantine and how disruptive would one be?

RSVP

Speakers

Amanda Hsiao

Director, China

Hsiao@eurasiagroup.net

About Amanda Hsiao

Amanda Hsiao is a director in Eurasia Group's China practice covering China's foreign policy and cross-strait relations. Amanda previously worked for more than a decade in Asia—in Singapore, Beijing, and Taipei—analyzing Chinese foreign and security policies from the perspective of crisis management and conflict prevention. As the International Crisis Group's senior analyst on China, Amanda followed the political dynamics underlying the tensions along China's periphery—including the Taiwan Strait and the Sino-Indian border—and with the US. Prior to that, she established the Centre for Humanitarian Dialogue's China program in Beijing, where she designed and facilitated dialogues involving Chinese interlocutors on issues such as tensions in the South China Sea, US-China relations, and China's evolving approach to conflict mediation. Her commentary on China has been featured in, among other publications, the New York Times, the Washington Post, the Guardian, Nikkei Asia, the BBC, and War on the Rocks.

In a previous life, Amanda analyzed conflict dynamics in South Sudan from the country's capital, Juba. She holds a master's degree in public affairs from Princeton University's School of Public and International Affairs and a bachelor's degree in international relations from Pomona College. In her spare time, Amanda is continually on the lookout for a good bowl of noodles or some tasty tacos.

Ava Shen

Associate, China & Northeast Asia

2025405150

shen@eurasiagroup.net

How to Join

Please note this invitation is non-transferrable and space is limited.

Registration for this event is required.

After registering, you will receive an email with instructions to join the meeting, including local dial-in information and a meeting invitation you can add to your calendar. Please note you must be logged in from a computer or mobile app in order to ask a question.

Please allow a few minutes before the call to join the meeting, and connect audio by following the prompts from the conference call platform.